Read the story

Robbers stole a large amount of money from Brink's in Boston. Investigators worked for years on the case. Newspapers gave it dramatic names. Studying a crime means checking evidence, not admiring the harm.

Different records answer different questions about a case. A headline attracts attention but may leave out uncertainty. Compare investigation records, court outcomes, and the effects on people involved.

Think, talk, and show evidence

1. State the main idea. Support it with two details from the reading.
2. Explain a change or challenge described in the text. Which words support your answer?
3. Use one vocabulary word in a new sentence about this event.
4. What can the image and caption help explain? What can they not tell you?

Follow-up reading: The Worcester tornado

1953

A powerful tornado struck the Worcester area. Ninety-four people died, and many homes were damaged. Neighbors helped one another recover. Weather experts studied the storm and how warnings could improve.

The June 9 tornado crossed several communities. It is commonly rated F4 on the historical Fujita scale. Modern warning tools differ from those available then; compare information systems carefully.

Compare the two readings. Explain one similarity or difference using a detail from each. Their order does not prove that one caused the other.
